PUBLIC AUCTION.

To be sold, at public auction, at Northumberland court house, in the county of Northumberland, and state of Virginia, on TUESDAY, the fifth day of September next, at eleven o'clock, in the forenoon,

Five contiguous Plantations,

Amounting together to about 2700 Acres, SITUATE on the river Potomac, and within about three miles of the court-house. These estates formerly belonged to Presley Thornton, Esq. and are the same on which he lived. They have never been seen by either of the subscribers; but it is understood, that about 1700 acres of them are as valuable low grounds as any on the river, and a considerable part thereof heavily timbered.

The uplands consist of about 1000 acres, and the whole is well calculated for the production of corn, wheat, tobacco, timothy, and small grain of all kinds, in great abundance. The waters are said to abound with excellent fish, oysters, and wild fowl. The water carriage is easy and convenient to Norfolk, Baltimore, Alexandria, and the city of Washington; and as these estates possess several good mill seats, with an abundance of water, and a plentiful supply of timber, they must be very valuable.

The premises will be shown to persons inclining to purchase, by Col. James Moore, who lives on them, or by Samuel Blackwell, Esq. who lives near to them; and the terms of payment may be known a sufficient time before the sale, by applying to either of them, or to the subscriber in the city of Philadelphia.

TO MILLERS.

I HAVE invented a machine called a Wheat Rubber, for which I obtained a patent on the first day of this month. This machine may be seen in operation in the mill of Nathaniel Ellicott, Occoquan. Those millers who feel an interest in investigating its merit and have not an opportunity of visiting Occoquan, may be fully informed by application to Mr. Ellicott by letter. My Wheat-Rubber, I do verily believe is upon entire new principles, the cost of erecting it a trifle, the materials of which it is composed easily attainable in any part of our country, and the plan simple in the extreme: any workman of common capacity will be enabled to erect it from description only. Practical millers know, that in a great proportion of the wheat that comes to market (from the manner it is stacked in the fields by the farmers and exposed to the weather) a number of sprouted and unsound grains mingle with the mass, and has eluded the ingenuity of the miller to separate it from the sound grain—they also know those unsound grains injure materially the taste and color of flour—my machine not only frees the wheat of stone, onion, cockle, dirt, &c. but does absolutely take from it every unsound grain, from what cause soever it may have been injured, as my machine will not let any unsound wheat pass it—millers may have their screen wire much finer than hitherto used, and thereby save considerably—it will also be found that the grain in passing the rubber, is polished, and that even the eyes of the wheat is picked perfectly clean of dust or dirt. Some instances having occurred of certificates being obtained, saying much more in favor of a new invention than the public are willing to admit after trial—I hope it will be a sufficient apology for my taking a different course. My price for the privilege of using the rubber is fifty dollars for each pair of wheat stones the mill contains.

Letters directed to me post paid shall be attended to.

TO A ROSE TREE AND A MYRTLE.

SENT TO A LADY.

Go, little blooming, fragrant rose,
Go to my love, and take thy place;
Unfold thy leaves, thy sweets disclose,
And be an emblem of her face.

And thou, my myrtle, ever green, Go with the Rose, and there impart, By thy unchanging, humble mien, An emblem of thy master's heart.

Then if, Eliza, we should twine The myrtle and the rose together, Would not the myrtle's leaves combine,
To guard the rose from stormy weather?

TO THE MEMORY

SIR JOHN MOORE.

As musing the sentinel stands on his station, Whilst friends and companions are slumbering secure,
He sighs o'er the fall of the flower of the nation,
The generous—the brave—the illustrious MOORE.

Now pale is his visage, and altered each feature,
For peaceful he slumbers beyond the salt wave, Whilst gently the dew, the kind tribute of nature,
Is shed o'er the green growing skirts of the grave.

His country still grateful, his memory may cherish,
And fond admiration may venerate his name;
The laurels he won, still through ages may flourish,
But when shall we hear the sweet sound of his fame?

But why thus reflect o'er the fate that is glorious,
And why thus lament o'er the fall of the brave?
For death tho' repuls'd shall at last be victorious,
And fearless, and fearful, must sink to the grave.

As an oak, so he stood, in the dread hour of danger, When, waving, its branches resound in the gale;
As the sun, so he sunk, in the land of the stranger,
When, glorious, it sets o'er yon western blue vale.

Then fame to the tow'rs of thy gay gilded temple, His honors dispatch on thy grey glossy wing,
For the soldier, inspir'd by his Gen'l's example, Braves dangers and death for his country and king.

General Wilkinson and the Public Money.

Among the various and infamous devices resorted to by gen. Wilkinson, to obtain possession of the public money, so necessary to support his extravagance, the following extract of a letter, written in 1808, and now extant in the War department, exhibits a pretty specimen:

From gen. Wilkinson to Mr. Abm. Abrams, military agent in New Orleans.

"Apropos, I received from you at New Orleans, among other sums, $2500 for secret services, if you have not already, do not notice this in your accounts; which will be immediately called for. I offer you as an equivalent, Dauphin Island, near the Mobile.
Mr. Wm. Simpson is instructed by this mail to give you every information on the subject, and he is authorised by me to pass into your hands the titles which he holds for the same. To this you may safely accede. More of this anon."

(He then wanders from the subject, and points out the many advantages attendant on the office of military agent; that the troops will be in force at New-Orleans; that a rupture with one or both of the belligerents is unavoidable. And near the conclusion of the letter he thus resumes:)

"The Island, in point of foreign as well as domestic advantages, fertility of soil and salubrity of climate, is, as you will find, a terrestrial Paradise. See Simpson, and you will be perfectly at ease."

Americans in French prisons.—There is scarcely an arrival from any part of Europe, that does not furnish incontestible evidence of the base and barbarous cruelties with which American prisoners are scourged in France. To the many instances already recorded on our journals, we have to add the following from the Post of last evening:

Messrs. Hathaway & Russell, merchants.

SIRS,
I embrace this favorable opportunity of writing to inform you of my present situation, which is dreadful.

Sirs, I left New York on the 23d of August, 1807, in the barque Two Brothers, commanded by Henry Gardner, and bound to Antwerp which port we were never permitted to arrive at, in consequence of the decrees of the belligerent nations. We remained at Flushing 6 months, and 4 in Rotterdam, during which period there was a vessel ordered home, with the officers and crews belonging to the respective ships in the ports of Holland; I being persuaded by capt. Gardner to remain by the vessel, which I did, always studying the interest of my owners. When the embargo was raised in Holland, no exertion was wanting on our side to get the vessel in readiness for sea, in hopes to get out of Europe which was then in a state of convulsions. Captain Gardner then procured a freight to Charante, for a cargo of Brandy, which proved to me unfortunate. As to the particulars of the voyage, I imagine you are perfectly acquainted with them. We arrived in Charante in France, on the 1st of September 1808. At our arrival we were embargoed. In the mean while we were employed in overhauling ship and taking in cargo; got every thing on board ready for sea, when some of the people went and denounced the ship; said we touched at a port in England, and were boarded at different times by British ships of war; through which we were sent to prison at Charante. On the 15th of Oct. we were sent to Rochefort prison, captain Gardner being unwell obtained permission to go to the hospital; I remained in Rochefort prison seven weeks. I was then ordered to prepare for Arras. On the 7th of Dec. I commenced my travels with the officers of the ship Neptune of Portland, and Holland Trader of New York. Captain Gardner still remained in the hospital.

We arrived in Arras after a disagreeable march of about 600 miles through France—[We] suffered much on the road with fatigue and want; [and] the chief of our all became a prey to the overbearing prison keepers.— Since our arrival in Arras we had letters from capt. Jenkins, whose vessel is likewise denounced, with eight more. He informs me that capt. Gardner and eight more had made their escape, since we left Rochefort.
Capt. Jenkins, ship Minerva, of Rochester, capt. Tucker, of the William of Newbury-port; capt. Chaddock, of the Wareham, of New York, and their mates and some of the people are in Rochefort prison. I am here friendless and moneyless. Our pay is nineteen cents per day, to supply every necessary of life, and no support whatever we can obtain from our minister. I write frequently to his excellency gen. Armstrong, to alleviate our distress by allowing some pecuniary support, if [he can] not obtain our release. He will not even answer our letters; he listens to the sufferings of his countrymen, and gives them no redress. He looks on us more with contempt than pity.
We are furthermore informed by Mr. Cox Barnett, American consul for the district of Havre, that his excellency the French minister would immediately give us up were gen. Armstrong to make application for us.
Mr. Barnett is a man who does all that lays in [his] power for his countrymen. Were he invested with full authority we should soon be redeemed from captivity. He informs us that we cannot be released until the fine which the emperor's decrees [have] imposed on us be paid. I was six months a prisoner on the 13th of April last, which seems an age to me, not [having] been accustomed to a state of captivity. No more at present, but

Remain your ob't Humble servant,

JOHN WYLE.

Dated Arras prison,
April 18th, 1809.

The government of France still professes to be at peace and amity with ours; yet such is her daily conduct towards our unfortunate fellow citizens, that even were the two nations at open war with us, it would disgrace the character of the civilized world.
Can it fail, then, to rouse the indignation of every patriot of our injured and insulted country?

Translated for the Baltimore American.

OFFICIAL CORRESPONDENCE, Between the ministers of France and Aus- tria, prior to the commencement of hos- tilities.

BAYONNE, July 16. 1808.

SIR,

Mr. Young lieutenant in the second regiment of Polish infantry, in returning to Gal-lacia upon family affairs, was arrested there, although he was furnished with the requisite passports. Marshal Davoust thrice reclaimed him of Count de Niepperg, the col. commanding on the frontiers of Austrian Gallicia, but without effect, reminding him that Mr. Young's passports were such as required Count de Niepperg from the military government of Galicia, inspiring with hope that those who conformed to his requisitions, would be permitted to pass unmolested. Mr.
Young's papers have been seized and himself remains under arrest. I am ordered to demand of you his liberation.

It is difficult to make this demand without some degree of complaint, or at least expressions of regret at the course of conduct proposed to be pursued by the Austrian government in relation to the Duchy of Warsaw. Communication becomes more and more difficult. Already they permit to pass with the greatest difficulty, provisions destined for the grand Duchy. The most excessive rigor is observed towards the French and the countries in their possession.
This conduct has not been pursued towards other foreigners. Whilst on the part of France, every measure has been taken, not only for the safety of the different provinces of Austria, but likewise for the tranquillity of the interior. The Austrian government ought not to have the least disquiet about the one or the other.

Could these unfavorable dispositions otherwise give astonishment; of the entry at Trieste of the three American vessels with cargoes so evidently from Malta and England, that no one in that city doubted the fact? What could we think of the cry of war which rung from Vienna through all Germany; of those preparations with which all the newspapers are filled; of the movement of the troops in Galicia, who were concentrated into a solid body; of similar movements announced in Bohemia; and finally of the levy of a national guard, backed by an organized militia, as if the Austrian monarchy was spending all its resources to make a great blow, or to save itself from great danger? And whilst sir, you know, and your government has proclaimed it, there exists a profound peace; that France particularly, in perfect harmony with her neighbors, demands nothing of it, makes no pretensions to any thing belonging to it and has no view whatever which can give it the slightest uneasiness.

It is impossible almost for me to express to you my surprise. Although this is not the general object of my note which relates to a single fact. Can there exist, (and we cannot doubt it) such a general spirit of malevolence? It cannot but be thought, that this disposition is the fickleness of the conduct of some overseers of your government who think to serve or please it, by spreading intentions which we do not wish to believe it to possess.

I eagerly embrace this occasion, to express to your excellency the assurances of, &c.

NO. II.

Letter from Count Champagny to his excellency Count Mitternich.

BAYONNE, July 18, 1808.

I wished to converse with you confidentially, as I am flattered by the nature of the overtures which your excellency has made me: the subjoined note, relating to a particular fact at which I am charged to give you information, leaves me an opportunity to speak about the warlike preparations of the Austrian monarchy, which are not only announced in all the newspapers, but likewise by the correspondence of all the courts of Germany. Several of these measures are avowed by your government. It must be agreed that they form a strange contrast to the state of profound peace, and even to the close connexion which subsists between all the continental powers. I have thought it due you to speak of this subject without making it the object of a special note.— What end do they propose in thus disturbing the quiet of a great part of Germany?
If they wish to preserve peace, and we have no doubt in this respect, why those warlike appearances? One of the blessings of peace is the security which is enjoyed by it, and many unhappy wars have taken place, only from preparations, made oftentimes without the intention of beginning a war, but which has sprung from the fear of it. I give those reflections sir, to your good understanding, to the rectitude of your intentions, and the lively desire which animates us to maintain perfect harmony between the respective governments. Besides such a sult due to our common efforts would ford me great pleasure.

That your Exc. &c. &c.

BOSTON, July 11.

From Lisbon.

By the arrival of capt. Howland of Lisbon, who left there on the 8d of June, we learn, that success still attended the sorts of the Portuguese, Spaniards and English, against the French. Portugal got rid of the invaders, and the greater of Soult's army had been destroyed and prisoners. It was rumored that the general was among the prisoners.

The patriots of Bilbao, were stated have risen on the French garrison at that place, subdued them, and recovered their liberty—and there was a rumor of a rising at Corunna against the French. The French had made a shew of advancing, on the 26th of Lisbon, but had retreated again.

Reinforcements of troops continued arrive at Lisbon almost daily from England.
All soldiers who were in health were marched to the frontiers, and garrison duty was performing by invalids.

A report of taking of Ferrol is supposed to be founded on the capture of Vigo, some time since.

Capt. Howland favored us with Lisbo-papers to May 30th. A paper of June 1st was given to a vessel at sea.

The following articles exhibit the substance of the contents of the papers received.

LISBON, May 26.

On the 17th the van guard of the French army appeared before Valencia of Alentejo ra (Spain, on the frontier of Portugal, 20 of Lisbon) and demanded its surrender.— The demand was answered from the mouth of cannon, and the French are said to have retreated afterwards. The force is variously stated from 800 to 3000.

May 27.

It has been confirmed by official notice that the French army of marshal Soult, believed to be at Oporto and at Amarante, has fled with precipitation, abandoning artillery, baggage, &c. and losing a great number of soldiers killed and prisoners. All our provinces of the north are freed from the vandals, who committed great outrages in their flight.

The marquis of Astorga is appointed president of the supreme junta of Spain.

The patriots continue to resist the French in Arragon.

The French in Barcelona appeared to be preparing to withdraw from that place.

Accounts from Seville are to May 15.— The anniversary of the massacre of the citizens of Madrid by the French on the 3d of May, had been commemorated.

It was reported that troops had been drawn from Naples by the French to strengthen the army of the Tyrol—that there was an insurrection of the Calabrians; and the gen. Stuart, with a mixed army of 30,000 men, was ready to join them.

LIVERPOOL, May 10.

SUMMARY OF EVENTS.

The Dutch papers repeat the report that Mustapha Bairactar is still alive, and on the eve of executing great projects.

The emperor Alexander had returned to Petersburg from Finland on the 12th, for the purpose of being present at the marriage of the grand duchess Catharine. His majesty had appointed the circumnavigator, captain Von Ktusenstern, to the command of the Blagodat of 110 guns.

The king of Denmark is reported to have treated count Rosen and col. Blomnestien, who were sent to him by the duke of Sud-dermania (now reigning in Sweden) with great coolness—and observed that the indignities shewn to Gustavus were so offensive, that he could not acknowledge the new government.

A committee of the English catholics held a meeting on the 24th ultimo at the Earl of Shewsbury's, to consider the propriety of petitioning parliament for an assimilation of the laws respecting their body between the sister islands. The catholics of Ireland it must be known to every reader, enjoy the elective franchise, and some other privileges, which are denied their brethren in England.
However equitable their claims, the committee agreed to wave them for the present, that they might not appear to wish to embarrass government at a period of peculiar difficulty.

On Saturday last arrived the schr. Fair Trader, captain Shackelford, in 8 days from Halifax. London papers to May 20 had been received at Newfoundland, and the contents were very favorable with respect to the Austrians.

The brig Fame, Stone, of this port, touched at Gre- nada about the 26th of June, with the loss of her main topmast, and sailed again for Laguna. American produce at Grenada remarkably low.

CHILICOTHE, June 29.

There is perhaps few instances on record since the days of Nero, of more deliberate tyrannical proscription, than one which I shall attempt to narrate.

Captain JARVIS CUTLER, having been recommended, by as respectable characters as there are in the state of Ohio, for a cap- taincy in the additional army, was appointed and received orders in June last to recruit. Before Dec. he had upwards of 80 fine young men enlisted in his company, and in Feb. last he received orders to proceed from Newport (Ky.) to New-Orleans, with his company, where he arrived on the 2d of March. In the mean time busy babbling some had informed Mr. Jefferson and Mr. sec'y. Dearborne, that capt. CUTLER, was a son of doctor Manasseh Cutler, an old revolution- ary patriot, one who had often made his breast our country's bulwark, during that period which died men's souls—This was sufficient—his name was struck from the nomination list, before it was sent to the Senate for con- firmance. He is now more than 1500 miles from home, left sick and friendless to gra- tify these "ministers of vengeance." Thus we see, while Duane and a whole host of foreign out-casts and renegades are pro- vided with the most lucrative posts by our government, although they possess neither talents, nor any other quality to recommend them, except a devoted sycophancy; the true born sons of America are not only de- ried, but persecuted even to the brink of the grave.

Alexandria Daily Gazette.

TUESDAY, JULY 18.

On the last day of the session, Mr. Ran- dolf reported two bills, one to provide for the selection of jurors by the courts of the United States instead of the marshals; the other specifying the punishments to be ad- judged by courts martial, which are pro- posed to be limited to hard labor with or without a suspension of pay; solitary con- finement with or without such suspension, and with or without a partial suspension of subsistence; banishment with disgrace; and death.

COLONEL PICKERING.

There is no end to the profligate accusa- tions made against the veteran patriot and soldier, col. Pickering. His elevated and deserved reputation, having gradually risen to the pitch at which it stands, affords a security against the attacks of those who are not his enemies alone, but equally hostile to public virtue itself. The stand which he so nobly and successfully made against the conspirators, who have been endeavoring to rock upon the nation the chains of France and the embargo, will never be forgiven by them. Accordingly they have incessantly exercised their defamatory in- ventions, till at length they have reached the extreme point of calumny, by charging him with having written to his nephew Samuel Williams, Esq. now residing in London, to apply to the British minister for aid and protection in a meditated separation of the states, which application was made to Mr. Manning last summer.

This slander was hinted at in the Whig some days ago, and is formally repeated this morning by a correspondent of that pa- per, with names and circumstances. As charge can be conceived of a higher grade than this, reluctant as col. Pickering ever has been to appear sensible to the poisoned arrows of his enemies, we hope he will look upon this as meriting his serious attention. As the more worthy of this condescension the name of general Armstrong, the mi- nister at Paris, is referred to as a source of knowledge, and the tale is represented as coming to us immediately from Washing- ton, by which we are left to conclude that it has issued from the department of state.

ACCOUNT OF A YOUNG LADY TAK- ING THE VEIL AT NAPLES.

(From Lemaistre's travels after the peace of Amiens.)

When we stopped at the door of the church in which this dreadful sacrifice was to be made, two gentlemen, dressed in uni- form reltioses of the lady about to assume the religious habit, came forward, and not- withstanding a heavy shower of rain which was falling at the time, insisted on handing le Signore Inglese up the stairs of the church. On entering we received another mark of the civility shewn to strangers by the Nea- politan noblesse—the front seats were reserved exclusively for foreigners; by which ar- rangement we were enabled to see the cere- mony to the greatest advantage.

The church is a small but pretty building, decorated on all sides with rich marble.

The relatives of the unfortunate girl, and all their friends, were in full dress, and in- stead of expressing any grief on the occasion seemed to consider the event as extremely joyful. Liveliness sat on the countenance of most of them; and the whole scene had rather the appearance of a triumph than of a sacrifice.

Printed papers were distributed about the church; the contents of which were so cu- rious, that though I will not tire you by co- pying them verbatim, I must give you the heads as characteristic of the sentiments which prevail here on such subjects. They formed together a dialogue; the dramatis personæ of which were the world and the fair novice. The one was entitled, "To her Excellency Signora, the World speaks," and consisted of a poetical and flowery de- scription of the pleasures of life. The other had written over it, "To the World her Excellency Signora answers." In the latter the victim of superstition was made victoriously to prove the superior blessings of contemplative ease & celestial joy, found in the calm retreat of a religious house; and disdaining the tawdry and empty vanities offered by the world, she declared how hap- py she thought herself in being allowed to exchange these baubles for the glorious ser- vice of the heavenly spouse, to which she was about to devote the remainder of her days.

The ceremony began with some very good music. High mass was then said, and, in the middle of it, the unfortunate girl, a beautiful and elegant creature, not more than nineteen years of age, and by far the handsomest Neapolitan female whom I have yet seen, appeared at the grate; near which a large, and rather disorderly, crowd was collected. The confessor, standing on the outer side, read some prayers, and gave the novice, thro' the grate, a wax-taper lighted. The lovely victim, dressed in the most sumptuous and fashionable manner, and or- namented with jewels and other decora- tions, placed it on the altar of an inner chap- el, and returning again to the grate, re- ceived from the priest a crucifix. Joy spark- led in her countenance as she took the sa- cred symbol of christianity, and, with en- thusiastic ardor, clasped it to her breast.— She was then led away by the other nuns; and in a few minutes was brought back in a plain white flannel dress, the costume of the order. This change of garment had pro- duced none in her beauty; and the interest she had excited on her first appearance was rather increased than diminished by the religious habit which she now wore. The lady abess next cut off her long and flowing hair, and placed on her head the fatal veil. I confess I shuddered as I witnessed this last act, which sealed the fate of this unhap- py girl. This sentiment common to all the English, and which rendered the most vola- tile melancholy, was not shared by the near- est relatives of her who was thus condemn- ed.

"To wither in her bloom, Lost in a Convent's solitary gloom."

The Neapolitan ladies laughed, or rather giggled, during the most serious parts of the ceremony; sent messages from one to the other; and amused themselves with con- versing together on the most trivial topics; in short, seemed to consider the whole as a very lively and pleasant event. The novice shed no tears, but her countenance was pale and I thought I could discover that the smile she assumed was rather forced than natural.

As we were leaving the chapel, we were invited into the parloir, where the nuns, only separated by a low grate, appeared, and entertained the strangers with ice, cakes, and other refreshments. The new victim was here seen again, and seemed, by an officious activity displayed in waiting on her guests, to be anxious to conceal the dreadful thro'ts which probably pressed on her mind.

During the whole of this ceremony I ex- perience the most painful sensations, and I could not help remarking how circumstances of the most dreadful kind may be reconciled by custom, prejudice and religious opinions. The English assembled on this occasion, feeling both pity for the object of sacrifice, and indignation against those who were the authors of it, were at one instant over- come with grief, and the next animated with an enthusiastic wish to rush forward, and by force to rescue the victim of superstition from the hands of her bigotted relatives:—while the Neapolitans conceiving that they themselves were doing an act of laudable piety in thus devoting this lovely creature to the cloister, and were enuring her eternal happiness, shewed in their man- ner, their countenances and their conversa- tion, that they looked on what was passing a scene of joy, not of sorrow. The loud tone of speaking or screaming which I have before remarked as prevalent in Italian so- ciety, was particularly remarkable on this occasion; and nothing, altogether, could be less solemn than a ceremony calculated, ac- cording to our ideas, to excite the most se- rious and most painful reflections.

M. DE DASHKOFF, Charge des Affaires and Consul-General of the Emperor of Rus- sia to the United States, arrived here a few days ago. We understand that he has been recognized as such by the President of the United States, and has received his exe- cutorial as Consul-General. Nat. Intel.

RECOMMENDATION.

THE Superintendent of Police recom- mends to the citizens of Alexandria, during the warm season, a frequent use of LIME in their Privies and other parts of their premises where filth accumulates—and the greatest attention is required to the keep- ing clean and dry their cellars, so that no stagnant water be left in them.

He particularly requests the proprietors of unoccupied houses and cellars to cause them frequently to be opened and aired—housekeepers are required to cause all the rubbish accumulated in their back yards to be thrown into the streets that the scavengers carts may take it away.

OBSERVE.

The following MEDICINES are sold by ROBERT GRAY, Bookseller in King-street—and by N. HINGSTON, Fairfax-street, Alexandria.

LEE'S ELIXIR!

A sovereign remedy for colds, obstinate coughs, catarrhs, asthmas, sore throats, and approaching consumptions. A single trial of this medicine will prove its efficacious quality in restoring a perspiration common to healthy people; it dislodges and expels the tough viscid phlegm or mucus, strengthening the weakened vessels of the lungs, thus striking at the root of the disorder, the symptoms of course are effectually and permanently conquered. The great number of cures performed in 1808 by this elegant and useful preparation, is sufficient to astonish and convince those that labor under colds, coughs, consumptions, &c. of being immediately relieved, without saying any thing of the many thousands benefited in former years; however for the information of those persons, if any there be, that have not heard of the balsamic qualities of Lee's Elixir, we give the names of the following persons who are well known to our citizens in general as persons of known integrity and strict veracity. From the following certificates it will plainly appear, that a three year's consumption, a common cold or cough, are all with ease removed by Lee's Elixir.

Messrs. R. Lee and Son,

The superior qualities of your medicine, called Lee's Elixir, induces me to give you this certificate for publication, to point to my suffering fellow mortals the road to health, the most valuable of all earthly possessions. For upwards of three years I have been afflicted with a severe cough, tightness of the breast, lowness of spirits, and a gradual wasting of the flesh; having tried different medicines recommended for such cases, without receiving any real benefit; fortunately one of your advertisements was given to me—I immediately applied to Mr. Vance, 178, Market street, for some of your Elixir, which has contrary to the expectations of my friends restored me to my former good state of health. Any other information will be given by me.

George Harwood,
Market street, Baltimore

Messrs. R. Lee & Son,

You are at liberty to publish for the good of others, the benefit I have received from your excellent preparation called Lee's Elixir. Being afflicted with violent pains in the breast, loss of appetite, and a debility of the whole system, which rendered me unable to attend to business, being advised to try your Elixir, I procured two bottles of Messieurs Warner and Hanna, which has entirely removed the complaint, and restored me to a perfect state of health. From the good effect of your Elixir I was led to suppose your other medicines were equally efficacious, which induced me to give your Worm Lozenges to my children, and with pleasure I inform you they had the desired effect. Any other information I shall give on application to me at my house in Sly's-street, Baltimore.

John Keller.

Messrs. R. Lee & Son,

In December last I was attacked with a most violent cold, a severe cough and pains in the breast, which continued to grow worse, during which time my appetite failed, and my voice altered so much, that it was with the utmost exertion I could pronounce a single sentence louder than my breath. Some of my friends having observed to me, that much good had been done by the use of Lee's Elixir, advised me to procure a bottle from Messrs. Warner and Hanna, which I accordingly did—and to those persons unacquainted with the merits of this medicine, it will appear astonishing that three doses should remove the pains in my breast, and the use of the one bottle restored me to PERFECT HEALTH.

J. A. Smith,
Market street, Fell's Point.

Lee's Worm-destroying Lozenges.

This medicine is superior to any verifered to the public, being innocent and mild certain and efficacious in its operations.—Should no worms exist in the body, it will without pain or griping, cleanse the stomach and bowels of whatever is foul or offensive, and thereby prevent the production of worms and many fatal disorders.

Lee's Grand Restorative.

Proved by long extensive experience, to be absolutely unparalleled in the cure of nervous disorders, consumptions, lowness of spirits, loss of appetite, impurity of blood, hysterical affections, inward weaknesses, violent cramps in the stomach and bad indigestions, melancholy, gout in the stomach, pains in the limbs, relaxations, involuntary emissions, obstinate gleets, flour albus for whites impotency, barrenness, &c. &c.

Infallible Ague and Fever Drops.

For the cure of agues, remittent and intermittent fevers.

Lee's Genuine Essence & Extract of Mustard.

A safe and effectual remedy for acute and chronic rheumatism, gout, palsy, lumbago, numbness, white swellings, chilblains, sprains, bruises, pains in the face and neck, &c.

Valuable Property for Sale.

Pursuant to a deed of trust made by ELISHA JANNEY to the subscriber for the benefit of his creditors, will be exposed to public sale, before the tavern door of Zachariah Ward, in the town of Occoquan, at twelve o'clock, on FRIDAY, the twenty-first of next month—the property of the said Janney, situate in the said town of Occoquan. On this site was erected, about ten years ago, a spacious three story brick mill house, which ever since has been occupied as a manufacturing mill until about five weeks ago it was destroyed by fire: the stone work of the mill and a considerable part of the brick work still stands and would be found sufficiently substantial to erect new work upon it—considerable part of the iron work would also answer for a new mill, which might with these aids be erected in time to grind the growing crop of wheat. The advantages appertaining to this valuable property which in the driest season never wants water, are so generally known as hardly to need a particular enumeration. Suffice it to state, that it is situated in a healthy and flourishing little town at the falls of Occoquan river, about 16 miles south of Alexandria, on the great stage road leading from north to south, in the heart of a fine wheat country, and has navigable tide water to the mill door where vessels may come of sufficient burthen to carry 400 to 500 barrels of flour.

That valuable MILL-SEAT,

ALSO,
At the same time and place will be exposed to sale,

The TANYARD and the Improvement thereon, which are calculated for the carrying on the tanning business to advantage and on a large scale, together with the stock of Leather, &c. on hand.

ALSO,
Will be exposed for sale, at the same time and place,

One undivided Moiety of a Tract of Land, containing about 500 acres, situate on the north side of the Occoquan river, very valuable from the quantity of fine timber which it contains.

Terms of sale for the real property will be—Ten per cent on the purchase money payable within 60 days by negotiable notes well endorsed—for the residue a credit will be given of one, two and three years on equal payments with interest from the date, and a deed of trust upon the property to secure the payments will be required.

For further particulars, those who may desire to purchase will be pleased to apply to Mr. Nathaniel Elliott, at Occoquan, or to the subscriber at Bush-Hill, near Alexandria.
